Last update: September 2023

This website "voicesfy.com" uses cookies to enhance the performance of the website and to improve your browsing experience. Certain areas of the website also use cookies to understand more about you, so we can offer you a more personalized browsing experience. We use a simple counter, without storing any information on your device, to count the number of visitors who accept or reject our cookies.

If you have any questions regarding the cookies we use, please contact us.

What is a cookie?

A "cookie" is a technology that allows the website to store tokens of information (an "identifier") in your browser used by the website while you are on the site. Cookies are then sent back to the website on each subsequent visit, or to another webpage that recognizes that cookie. Cookies are used so that the website can function, or to make it function more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the website's owners.

Cookies perform many different tasks, such as allowing you to navigate between pages efficiently, remembering your preferences, and generally enhancing the user experience. Cookies can tell us, for example, if you have visited the website before or if you are a new visitor. Upon entering the website, you have been given the opportunity to accept the cookies used on the website, accept certain categories of cookies, and reject others, or to reject all cookies. If you have accepted our use of some or all cookies, the following information relates only to the cookies used on the website. Please note that any consent to accept or reject cookies is limited only to the website voicesfy.com and not to other local VOICESFY sites or any other page, which may have a hyperlink to our website or portal. For more information about the cookies used by those websites, please refer to the specific privacy notice or cookie policy of those websites. If you have any questions, please contact us.

There are two broad categories of cookies:

1. First-party cookies, sent directly by us to your device.
2. Third-party cookies, which are served by a third party on our behalf.

Cookies can remain on your computer or mobile device for different periods of time. Some cookies are "session cookies", meaning they only exist while your browser is open. These are automatically deleted once you close your browser. Other cookies are "persistent cookies", which means they survive after your browser is closed. They can be used by the website to recognize your computer when you open your browser and surf the internet again.

What types of cookies do we use?

The website uses cookies that perform four functions, which are classified as follows:

1. Essential/strictly necessary cookies, which are essential for the website's operation.
2. Performance cookies, which help us measure the website's performance and improve your experience. When using performance cookies, we do not store any personal data and only use the information gathered through these cookies in an aggregated and anonymous form.
3. Functionality cookies, which allow us to enhance your experience (for example, by remembering any settings you might have selected).
